

NEW YORK

A New Bar Where You Can Smoke Indoors

Besides cocktails and small plates, new Upper East Side speak-easy Sugar East allows smoking indoors.

The lounge at 1125 First Avenue has a grandfathered tobacco license, and the owners Merchants Hospitality decided to keep it so because of the bar's mid-century Mad Men and Havana nightlife theme — “hearkening back to the decadent Havana high life where one might feel like a cigarette after a few cocktails.”

It's not supposed to be a destination for smokers, just an option.

It's one of several bars in New York that still allow smoking indoors,
